

Abstract and Paper Submission Guidelines for the RENT Conference

1. Formatting and Layout

1.a Abstract

You will be requested to choose a track theme when submitting your abstract. You will find the track themes on the conference website. This will assist us in appointing reviewers within your particular area of expertise. Do not include your name and affiliation on the paper, since it will be sent out for blind review. The title of your paper should not exceed 85 characters including spaces. The abstract should be divided into the following headings.

- Objectives (200 words)
- Literature/review (300 words)
- Approach/Method (200 words)
- Results/Findings (300 words)
- Value/ Implications (200 words)

To submit you will be requested to download the submission template, fill it in and upload it into the system (see section call for papers)

1.b Full Paper

All papers accepted for the RENT Conference will be published in an electronic proceedings (ISSN) on a memory stick and will be made available on the RENT web site, 3 weeks before the conference and after it.

Completed papers should be submitted via web application (see acceptance letter for procedure)

2. Reviewing Process

Given the number of submissions that we receive for the conference, only limited feedback is given on abstracts. Any suggestions to improve a paper are made in this context. Each paper will be blind-reviewed by two reviewers.

All papers accepted for presentation at the conference and submitted by the required deadline will be included in a memory stick. However, this is subject to at least one author having registered for the conference and paid the appropriate fees by the date indicated in the acceptance letter.

If you have not signed up and uploaded your full paper by this date your paper will be withdrawn.

In order to ensure papers are included on the memory stick, extensions beyond the final deadline indicated on the web site will NOT be possible.

PowerPoint Presentation

The oral presentation at the Conference should be delivered in plain English and focus on the following key features of the paper:

- Objectives / Key research question(s) of the paper
- Key model or framework used
- Nature and source of data used, including any key limitations to the methodology/methods
- Presentation of key findings – avoiding detailed discussion of statistical data
- Conclusions and implications for research, policy or practice
- Recommendations for future research and development

The above are meant to be guidance and it is not necessary to cover all of the above features. Only select those appropriate to your paper and the audience. The purpose of the presentation is to stimulate discussion and debate rather than cover every detail in your paper.

The preferred presentation format is Microsoft PowerPoint with a maximum of 6 slides, which must not exceed 15 minutes presentation time. Please bring your PowerPoint presentation to the conference on a USB memory stick and upload it onto the PC/laptop in the relevant presentation room before your presentation session is due to begin. You might like to bring a few photocopies of either your PowerPoint visuals or your full paper for handing out to interested delegates.

1. Expectations of Papers

Title: All papers should have a clear, concise title; the contribution of a paper should be evident from the title. The title should be no longer than 10 words. Titles which do not match the paper can cause frustration to reviewers.

Abstract: A structured abstract is essential; abstracts which are not clearly articulated may be rejected.

The Paper: Please use the following headings where appropriate:

- Objectives
- Literature/review
- Approach/Method
- Results/Findings
- Value/ Implications

Full papers can be theoretical, conceptual, methodological, and have an empirical dimension. In a full paper, the literature review is an important element and it is necessary to clearly articulate how the paper contributes to the existing literature. Thus results, implications and value will be linked to the literature presented. The standard required is that of an article nearing publication.

The methodological orientation of full papers must be clearly articulated. It is not necessary (unless the paper is a purely methodological one) to provide a tortuous explanation of methodology. One should merely position the methodology within clear boundaries. Only where particular justification is required will a lengthy methodology section be necessary. All full papers submitted will be expected to make a contribution to their particular area and as such should be of a standard nearing publication but would potentially benefit from observations/comments during conference presentation.
